

The Intelligencer.

OFFICE: No. 15 Quincy Street.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1873.

The Martinsburg & Potomac Railroad now completed carried to the Martinsburg Fair one day 2,700 Pennsylvania, on a single train. So the Statesman says. The receipts of the Fair were nearly $3,000.

The Ohio Valley News reminds us that the proper name of its town is not Martinsburg, as we sometimes call it, but MARTINS FERRY. We accept the correction and will try to avoid future repetition of the offense.

SENATOR MORTON states that he has in his possession a proposition from eminent capitalists in Holland to build a four-track railroad from the Atlantic coast to some point in the West, perhaps Indianapolis or Chicago, the whole to be accomplished by private capital, and without asking for a dollar of State, national or individual aid, and he vouches for the entire responsibility of the parties.

An agent of our neighbor, the Register, soliciting subscriptions at Cumberland and offering tickets which entitled the subscriber to "a chance" in the proposed gift enterprise "distribution" has been warned by State's Attorney Read of that city not to attempt to take subscriptions to his paper on these terms, as it is a violation of the lottery law of the State. So we learn from the Cumberland Times. Is the lottery law of Maryland any more stringent than the lottery law of West Virginia, or are law officers there more faithful to their duty than they are in this State?

This Galaxy is the first of the October magazines to reach us. The most notable article in it is a paper by Ex-Secretary GIBSON WALLS on LINCOLN and SEWARD. It is in reply to the memorial address on SEWARD delivered by Mr. CHAS. FRANCIS ADAMS. Mr. ADAMS, as our readers know, gave a higher place to SEWARD than LINCOLN even in LINCOLN's own administration. Mr. WALLS takes issue with Mr. ADAMS and declares that LINCOLN was the master mind. The article is exceedingly interesting both from a historical and personal point of view. Other contents of this number are up to the Galaxy's usual standard. Among the most attractive are "Chit-chat about etiquette," and "A hunt with the Yankton Sioux," and "The Wetherell affair" for those who are reading it.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Martins Ferry News, in view of the rapid growth of that town towards the dimensions of a city, and the laying off and sale of numerous additions, urges the necessity of having the whole building territory, from Burlington above to the narrow below, laid off upon a systematic plan, adapted to the needs of the future city. As it is now, additions are being laid off and built up in various directions without providing sufficient or sufficiently spacious streets, without any uniformity of direction and without any connection between one section of the town and another. The time will come when all this will have to be corrected, streets will have to be widened and new ones laid out, to give the city a uniform system of streets and alleys; and then, after the ground has been built up it will cost many hundred times what it would cost to provide a plan for the entire city now. The suggestion that the people of the town and neighborhood above and below should at once lay out the whole territory upon a plan commensurate with the future growth and needs of the city is an excellent one and ought to be heeded. It would be wise and economical not only for the remote but for the more immediate future; for not only would it save the vast sums that it would cost to rearrange the streets several years hence, but with a view to the avoidance of such future difficulties it would give all the property a higher value at once.

There exists in our poor human nature an almost universal tendency to be always better than what we are. The summer idlers are already beginning to return from their vacations, and when they are asked on the back by a friend why they did not go to Newport or Saratoga. They may have been to some pleasant and more rational place, but before they give up its name they will explain the circumstances which induced them to go there rather than to the more fashionable resorts. A gentleman in the diplomatic service informs us that out of every dozen Americans who visited the Legation in Paris, three fourths when asked where they were stopping, would preface the information by giving the reasons why they were not at the Grand Hotel. No one ever crosses the ocean on a steamer of a cheap line without expecting some particular attraction which induced him to make the choice. We have known men who would never show you a silver watch without telling you how much they preferred it, at the same price, to a gold one. A gentleman who counts on a steamer of a solitary diamond, will say that a pearl or an emerald is much prettier. He dines at a cheap house on Third Avenue, he will insist the dinner is better than Delmonico's. In short, the average American never will admit that cheapness has any attraction for him, or costliness any terror.—New York Tribune.

TRYING TO BRING BACK.—The confession of John T. Irving to the San Francisco police that he was a participant in the murder of Benjamin Nathan, has been extensively reported by the New York police as trustworthy. Nevertheless, during the past week police officers have appeared before the Grand Jury and testified that Irving had been one of three persons who committed a burglary in Chatham street a few months ago. The Grand Jury thereupon indicted Irving, thus giving an opportunity for the police to bring him to New York and learn what truth there was in his singular claim. The members of the Board of Police have determined to send two detectives to San Francisco and bring Irving back, not, however, with much hope of obtaining any important testimony from him. Captain Irving, of the detective squad, may go personally to California with one of his detectives.

A TENDER HEARTED Western Governor had pardoned a young rascal out of State Prison because he, the prisoner, was "dying of consumption." The pardon effected a speedy cure, and no more tubercles are reported.

CLARKSBURG.

Second Day of the Fair.—Attendance and General Management.—The Show of Stock.—Entertainments.—(From our Special Correspondent.)

In one or two respects the Fair Grounds here cannot be excelled for beauty in the country. Entering the gate at the southwest corner, one finds a gentle natural ascent, carpeted with a thick green sward of grass; and the varied groups of people, handsome stock, tasteful buildings and back-ground of carriage and wagons make it a most attractive sight. Children are everywhere; and they give, especially the babies, a happy air to the scene. Neighbors who have lived next door to each other for a year without the slightest acquaintance begin to speak to one another in the freedom, engendered by these social gatherings. There is within an unusual animation and appearance of enjoyment, which is owing to the EXCELLENT MANAGEMENT OF THE FAIR.

The most stringent regulations exclude all objectionable points here. A Justice of the Peace has an office on the grounds, and there are numerous special police. The premiums offered are not excessively liberal, but every facility is offered to exhibitors and visitors. There have been 1,285 entries made this season, against 993 last year, and the attendance exceeds that of previous years.

The general interest centres in the EXHIBITION OF STOCK, which so far exceeds that of last year that about fifty pens had to be improvised as shelter for cattle, sheep, &c. Valuable blooded horses constantly come around the ring, yet I fail to see wherein they differ from scores that were driven to the Fair by farmers in attendance, and I am told the country is full of them. The best horses in the State are raised here; and at this moment, as if keeping time to the music, as fine a lot of trotters as ever charmed the eye are darting around the ring, which is too small to show them to advantage. At 11 A. M. a grand procession of stock entered for exhibition moved around the ring. This was one of the most interesting sights of the Fair.

WESTON, PEDESTRIAN. Edward Payson Weston, the well known pedestrian, arrived here and registered at the St. Charles at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. He is a man of about twenty-eight, is probably five feet eight, and has a handsome and rather slim figure, light hair and complexion, with no whiskers. A large crowd soon gathered about the hotel, and after some fine music by the Clarksville brass band, Mr. Weston appeared on the balcony and invited everybody to his room. Here his guests were regaled with cigars and humorous anecdotes, which were received with applause. About 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, he entered the Fair Grounds, preceded by a band and followed by the officers of the Association on horseback. After taking a seat in the amphitheatre, some feeble applause, Capt. S. R. Steel, in brief and appropriate remarks, introduced the distinguished pedestrian. At 2:35 Mr. Weston appeared in the ring, dressed in black velvet lights with light hair, and at a signal from the Judge's stand started around the ring, walking five miles, including one-half mile backwards, in 57 minutes and 27 seconds—233 ahead of time.

MISCELLANEOUS. A match game of base ball was commenced in the afternoon between the Sards and Lamport clubs, but owing to some misunderstanding the result has not been made public.

The ladies of the Episcopal Church have a first-class dining-room on the grounds, which is well patronized. On Monday next the colored people of Harrison county will celebrate the anniversary of the Emancipation proclamation, in the Fair Grounds here. The programme consists of speaking, base ball, balloon ascension, tournament, fire works, and ball in the evening. HAL.

DIED.—On Thursday morning, September 18, 1873, at Clarksville, Md., William and Christina Goetz, aged 10 years 6 months and 1 day.
